

Marvin M014

Two movements for one charismatic personality

'Beauty can be found as much in character as in physique.' With its watching-making savoir-faire and creativity stretching back more than 100 years, Marvin reinvents the codes of the mechanical jumping hour. By way of a daring system, featuring two Swiss quartz movements, the hour now becomes passing. The result is the M014 – a strong personality with a generous form.

Brazen and striking

In former times, the jumping hour was one of Marvin's success stories. Today, its contemporary hour becomes passing – a reference to the complexities of traditional Swiss watch making. If the ergonomics of the dial of the M014 dwell on similarities, in this case the hour disc – visible beneath a three-digit moon crested opening – turns slowly, as time goes by.

Stimulating and amusing

Marvin has increased the originality of the M014 by adding a second crown, whose sole function is to stimulate imagination and amuse. An additional proof, that this quality watch does not take itself seriously – or rather, that it is seriously funny! This second crown also testifies to the talent of the designers in their quest for perfect balance and respect of proportions.

Atypical and daring

Each feature has been thoroughly analysed to create a fluid, harmonious timepiece. Their surrounds decoratively pressed, the minute and second hands appear to float in mid-air above dials of simple purity - swirling grey, structured black or elegant off-white. The result is a design both avant-garde and retro, which triggers surprising perspectives and optical effects.

Generous and authentic

In steel or PVD pink gold, the rectangular case of the M014 is imposing in size. Its character, full of nuance and finesse, is revealed through a combination of materials that have been polished and finished in satin, the creators' stamp, the leather strap with the distinctive Marvin red stitching and the sapphire glass. The authentic temperament of a Marvin timepiece.

Inevitably, time passes. But with Marvin's M014 and its charismatic personality, time goes unnoticed.
