Riches on the surface and the depths within

'The heart is like the sea. It's within its depth that one discovers its greatest riches.' To look inside the M109 and its noble heart is to be immersed in a universe of uncommon elegance. Audacious, daring, dreamlike, this creation is the expression of Marvin's Swiss watch-making savoir-faire.

The force of the elements

The pairing of a circular form against a square creates an impression of dynamic and constant movement. The contrast between the steel, PVD-treated pink gold case and the structured nuances of the dials, produces an effect which at times brings harmony and at other times, stimulation. The numbers, generous and playful in appearance, give the M109 a particular vitality and dynamism.

Dazzling depths

Beneath an open heart, the automatic movement – which lies on a mineral bed, like coral branches – reveals its treasure of Swiss precision and technical prowess.

Surface nuances

The case of the M109, which has been meticulously crafted, sparkles – combining the polished and satin facets as far as its horns.

Secured by a tongue buckle, decorated with the Marvin logo, the matt leather strap reveals its modern appearance and red Marvin interior. The links of the steel bracelet and its angled facets echo the bevelled horns of the case.

A sea of original features

The quality of the M109 is evident through the finishing touches unique to the Marvin automatic collections – the Marvin red number at eight o'clock, the stamp applied on the dial, the creators' stamp on the side of the case and a raised sapphire glass – features reminiscent of traditional watch making.

But the greatest value of the M109 lies in the eyes of its owner, as he navigates the world through his mind. On the surface, as well as below, the M109 is a world of treasure.
