

NEWTIME, NEW CODES

THE M112 COLLECTION: MARVIN INTUNE WITH THE TIMES

Once again, Marvin has thrown all the watchmaking codes out of the window. At a time when functions, materials and costs are subject to great one-upmanship in the world of watchmaking, the brand has created the M112, an object with a timeless design that will withstand changes in fashion and the passing years. An unrivalled advantage is its value for money: Marvin's committed response to excess.

Owning the M112, in contrast to the frantic pace of today's world, is a way of taking the time to appreciate one's watch by involving it in a daily ritual: winding the mechanical movement that can be seen through the transparent caseback.

This model is an example of the very essence of sophistication and simplicity. A style that makes it a watch for life: work, going out, sport, travel. The M112 is for any moment.

The watch is the opposite of an expensive fashion item. It is large and uncompromising, without unnecessary adornment. Each part of this timepiece was created to optimise the purity and harmony of its design.

The M112 naturally adheres to watchmaking codes that are greatly valued by Marvin: the hallmark of the founders that evokes the brand's long history; the black leather strap that is red on the inside; the notched crown, and the subtle detail of the red square at the outer edge of the index at 8 'o clock. Not forgetting the two-year guarantee. The watch is available in two versions: silver or black dial with a steel or PVD-coated rose gold case.
